

seats has been reduced to half the original cost, owing to the poor attendance last week.

Believing that the apathy was due to the high toll for seats, the reduction was made and other concessions granted the public, which will insure the Americans a big crowd.

Nearly all the events held thus far were those in which the Brits excelled and they carried off the greater part of the honors. At present the scores of England and America in the track and field games, which constitute the Olympic games proper, are: United Kingdom, 34; United States, 46. In the 100 metre high hurdles A. B. Shaw, Forest, Scotland, and John Garrahan, the three American contestants, are expected to finish in one two, three order.

Big Programme To-Day.

Ten events still remain to be contested, exclusive of the Marathon race, in all of which the American team will add to their score. These events are running broad jump, high jump, pole vault, 100, 200, 400 and 800 metres flat races, 110 and 400 metre hurdle races and the relay race.

Fear Canadians Most.

While of course the Americans realize that none of these will be a walk-over, they do not fear the European competitors as much as they do the two Canadians, Kerr, the sprinter who has easily beaten every one he has met in England, and Archibald, the clever pole vaulter. If the Indian, Longboat, is allowed to run in the Marathon, which it is believed he will, the committee having already decided not to allow the protest filed against him by the American committee, it is likely that the prize in this event again will go to Canada. There have been reports in circulation of accidents to the Indian runner, and also that he is not well, but those who know the ways of Longboat's manager do not give these much consideration.

Ambassador Reid's reception to the American team after the first day's work for the afternoon of July 19, it will be held between 4 and 6 o'clock, and as it will be impossible for the athletes to attend together, some being engaged at the stadium, they have been invited to drop in at any time between these hours.

BOOKIES BARE TRACK SECRETS TO GRAND JURY

Elder's Inquisitors Get Inside Facts from Vendig and Jones.

Orlando Jones, Joe Vendig and Jack Adler, the famous "All right" man of the betting ring, had a session to-day with the Kings County Grand Jury. It was rumored that one of the trio told about all the inside workings of the race track betting rings, both before and after the anti-betting law became effective.

Jones and Vendig refused to say whether or not they were summoned or appeared voluntarily. They are well known bookmakers. Jones is under indictment resulting from his arrest under the new law. For many years Adler has been a picturesque figure at the track. He lost his "All right" job after an unsuccessful effort to outbid John Cavanaugh, the manager of the betting ring.

Something Ready to Drop. Acting District Attorney Elder intimated to-day that something red hot was about to drop in the racing investigation. He was in and out of the Grand Jury room half a dozen times in the morning.

Mr. Elder to-day further delayed a final decision on the cases of the 10 men who have been arraigned for violating the anti-gambling law at the race track. For a month the cases have been piling up in the Coney Island Police Court and the lawyers for the prisoners have been vainly clamoring for an examination.

Before Justice Scudder, in the Supreme Court, Brooklyn, to-day Jacob Ellperin, who appeared for eight men arrested last Friday and held by Magistrate Tighe, declared that Mr. Elder was blocking the police court hearings and obtaining indictments against the men arrested.

Hearings Wednesday. Ellperin had obtained a writ of mandamus compelling Magistrate Tighe to give his clients an immediate examination, and the argument on the writ was set for to-day.

Mr. Elder said the Grand Jury was at work on the race track matter and his time had been fully occupied preparing testimony to be submitted to that body. He asked that the argument be adjourned until Wednesday.

"I will not agree to this unless Mr. Elder promises not to indict my clients in the mean time," said Mr. Ellperin. "The District Attorney does nothing but ask for adjournments."

Mr. Elder said he could make no promise for the Grand Jury, but Justice Scudder came to his rescue and set the hearing for Wednesday.

Philadelphia Cricket Team Loses in Game. Score Only 58 Points in First Inning Against Middlesex Eleven.

LONDON, July 20.—The Gentlemen of Philadelphia made a bad start in their cricket match against the Middlesex eleven at Lord's, London, this morning, being all despatched before lunch, with a total score of 58 runs.

The pitch was wet and the batters had a bad time of it. Only J. B. King and J. A. Lester reaching double figures, 14 and 13 respectively. King was clean bowled after scoring 6 runs and White did not survive much longer, being caught at the wicket with the score 40.

The third wicket went down at 36 and the rest of the side followed in rapid succession.

The Middlesex players were all out in the first innings for 92 runs. The Middlesex team won the match by seven wickets.

Fugitive Accused of Killing Aunt and His Affianced Bride

Otilie Eberhard

Posse Surrounds Slayer of Woman Hidden in Thicket

blonde and pink, little white mouse of a Harlem grocer's boy, who never before nor harmed anybody, although he has a nasty way of flaring up when things don't go to suit him.

Facts which may supply a direct motive for a murder for robbery came to light to-day. The deed to the little farm of Gus Eberhard's old father up in Dutchess County, N. Y., is in Gus's name and there was pressing and immediate need of $500 to pay off the mortgage and clear the title.

For months Eberhard has been visiting his aunt and young cousin of the attractions offered in this country. The cousin, a girl of twenty, was a dressmaker, and the letters to her not only told her of the money she could make, but Eberhard promised to marry her.

Arrived Last Thursday. The mother and daughter arrived here on Thursday last on the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland. They came second-class, the mother carrying in the neighborhood of $200 in the bosom of her waist.

Eberhard was on the pier to meet them. For months he had been employed in Fred Wehmann's grocery, at No. 59 St. Nicholas avenue.

Eberhard did not know where Gus quartered here in New York, but told of the devoted attentions paid her by Ernest Held, a steward on the Deutschland, during the voyage across.

"He knows where we have been stopping," she said. Held gave the police all possible assistance. Prosecutor Koester, of Hackensack, journeyed to New York and, after visiting the Adelphi Hotel, went to see Fred Wehmann, the grocer, who employed Eberhard.

Honest, Employer Insists. "I don't know a man I would trust more than I would Gus," cried Wehmann, "and I know he didn't commit his crime. I have no cash register in my store, and he had access to my cash at all times for his vacation. He did that shooting. Why, he was one of the best of fellows I ever knew, although he had a high temper, sometimes. One of the morning papers has a story about him having saved the life of my child the time our flat caught fire. As a father's fact, the young man was the first person out of the house, and he was scared half to death."

"He'd seen with us about two years. Before that he and his husband worked as drivers for Park & Thford, and for Buckhorn, at One Hundred and Tenth street and Broadway. We always liked him—he was so quiet and friendly. He had money in the Bowers Savings Bank, too, although I guess it didn't amount to a great deal."

In the summer when trade is dull, my husband would lay off until September, when he quit for his vacation, he told me he thought he was tampering with the till, and I do not know if he ever took a cent from me."

Nehmann was asked if he would go to New Jersey and see Mrs. Eberhard's body. He replied: "I will not. I don't mind helping the police in every way possible, but I know what they do with witnesses who go over there on the father's fact. They lock them up and keep them for months. I will do what I can from this side of the North River."

"Biggest Coward I Ever Saw." To an evening World reporter, Mrs. Wehmann, the wife of Gus's late employer, said: "It couldn't have been August that did that shooting. Why, he was one of the best of fellows I ever knew, although he had a high temper, sometimes. One of the morning papers has a story about him having saved the life of my child the time our flat caught fire. As a father's fact, the young man was the first person out of the house, and he was scared half to death."

NINE POWER BOATS FINISH IN RACE AT NEW ROCHELLE

AUGUST EBERHARD

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y., July 20.—In addition to the seven boats reported last night, two more of the thirteen contestants in the motor-boat race from Marblehead, Mass., to New Rochelle arrived here to-day. They are the Eberhard, which reported to the flagship Hyperion at 2:07 o'clock this morning, and the Helio, which arrived at 5:43 o'clock this morning. The Polywog and Dandy II, which started in the race, have not been reported.

The Cloud, owned by J. E. Peabody, was reported last night as having been disabled and towed into port by Gloucester fishermen. The gasoline tank of the Eberhard sprang a leak at 3:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon and the boat put into Providence for repairs.

The finishing time of the nine boats reported is as follows: Irene H., 8:42 P. M.; Picaron, 7:35 P. M.; Alorant, 7:25 P. M.; Fortuna II, 6:03 P. M.; Barbara, 5:45 P. M.; Kipora, 5:45 P. M.; Lesbia, 11:08 P. M.; Eberhard, 11:04 P. M.; Dolly, 5:43 P. M.

verge of a collapse as a result of the strain of the last few hours, and that he would allow no one to see her until she had somewhat recovered. She was not even permitted to attend the funeral of her mother to-day.

The county authorities went to some expense to inter the body in the Ridgewood Protestant Cemetery. Order for the burial was issued as soon as Coroner DeMund finished the autopsy.

He found one bullet in the heart and the other in the brain. He is of the opinion that the bullet in the brain was fired after death, had actually occurred. It was stated that the formal inquest would be held at some date to be fixed later.

V. M. C. A. RELAY BOYS TEN HOURS AHEAD OF TIME

After Sunday of Rest Start Is Made From Fremont, O., at 2 O'Clock.

CHICAGO, July 20.—At 2 o'clock this morning the final lap of the greater relay race in athletic history of this country started at Fremont, O., when a runner carrying a silver tube from Mayor McClellan, of New York, to Mayor Busse, of Chicago, started away in the darkness. It was the 85th relay of the race across the country to show the great value of the athletic training given the boys in the Young Men's Christian Association physical department. No barriers had been allowed to retard the boys in their record-breaking run. They have swum lakes and rivers, forded streams, climbed hills, and taken every short cut that would bring the message here a second sooner.

The runners are now more than ten hours ahead of schedule and are due to reach Chicago City Hall about noon to-day, unless some untoward incident or bad weather hampers their progress.

TOLEDO, O., July 20.—The V. M. C. A. relay runners carrying the message from New York to Chicago reached Toledo at 5:22 this morning from Fremont. Not a second was lost here, the local boys starting at once with the message for Adrian, Mich. A large crowd welcomed the Bellevue runners and witnessed the start of the Toledo boys.

COLDWATER, Mich., July 20.—At 1:30 this afternoon the V. M. C. A. relay runners were near Quincy, about fifteen miles east of Coldwater, and indications are that they will reach the V. M. C. A. here soon after 2 o'clock. The runners between Adrian and Allen where they were last reported, made excellent time.
